

centre for public christianity

Media Release
Immediate Release
From: Centre for Public Christianity

Tuesday February 10, 2009

Suite 702, 121 Walker Street
North Sydney, NSW 2060, Australia

T +61 2 9955 0077

F +61 2 9955 0055

info@publicchristianity.org

www.publicchristianity.org

Towards the public understanding of the Christian faith

Centre for Public Christianity rejects reported comments by Pastor Rick Feneley that the Victorian Bush Fires are the Result of Decriminalising Abortion

The Centre for Public Christianity in Sydney opposes comments reported on the Sydney Morning Herald Website by Pastor Rick Feneley in relation to the claim that the Victorian Bush Fires are somehow the result of decriminalising abortion in Victoria.

Such an interpretation of tragic events does not represent historic Christianity. It has more to do with superstition (not to mention astonishing insensitivity) than a robust understanding of the Bible and its teaching.

The Centre for Public Christianity would like to extend its deepest sympathies to all those impacted by this terrible event. This is not a time for platitudes or trite explanations, but prayer, concern and practical care for all those effected.

Media Contact:

Simon Smart 9955 0077 or 0425 339 657

ssmart@publicchristianity.org